Inflationary pressure likely to build up after Oct-Nov

Economists believe the MPC may not raise policy rate till at least the third quarter

SHRIMI CHOUDHARY & INDRAJ DHASMANA New Delhi, 15 August

Fall in the retail price inflation rate to a three-month low of 5.9 per cent in July may be transitory and may not last beyond October-November this year after consumer demand rises with supply constraints remaining and low base effect of the previous year wanes away.

Consumer price index (CPI)-based inflation rate came below the upper limit of the monetary policy committee's (MPC's) tolerance ceiling after two months due to decline in the rate of price rise in food items, particularly sharpening of deflation in vegetables.

Economists believe that the MPC may not raise the policy rate till at least the third quarter of the current fiscal year since economic growth is a concern. It may keep addressing systemic liquidity.

Former chief statistician Pranab Sen told Business Standard that going forward, consumer demand may rise quickly while that for investment is in bad shape.

"This means there is damage to the supply side. While pricing power of big corporates have gone up, that of MSMEs (micro, small and medium enterprises) have not come back," he said.

The MPC, in its latest policy review, said that input prices are rising across manufacturing and services sectors.

However, it also says that weak demand and efforts towards cost cutting are tempering the pass-through to output prices.

Soumya Kanti Ghosh, chief economist, advisor at State Bank of India (SBI) group, believes that this downward trajectory of CPI inflation could be a blip.

"As the economy opens up, the second round pass-through from fuel prices will gather momentum," he said.

The fuel inflation rate remained elevated in July despite some moderation from the previous month. Petrol was still at 23.7 per cent inflation rate against 24.54 per cent last month.

Ghosh said, more importantly, seasonally-adjusted month-on-month momentum of core inflation rate (which does not take into account food and fuel inflation rate) is now closer to the trend. "Core is currently at 5.94 per cent and we expect it to go up from these levels," he added.

"Our full-year forecast of the average inflation rate is 5.9 per cent for 2021-22, which is a bit higher than the MPC's estimate at 5.7 per cent," he said.

However, the MPC also expected the inflation rate to be 5.9 per cent in the second quarter of the current fiscal year. If this turns out to be true, the inflation rate may rise in August and September or one of these months compared to the July figure.

Madan Sabnavis, chief economist at CARE Ratings, said inflation rate will remain 5.5-5.5 per cent in the next two months and then increase. The inflation rate was down in July on a high base effect, which will fall till September-October, he added.

"Core will remain sticky and rise," Sabnavis said. He pointed out that service prices are going up.

Even health services, the crucial segment during Covid times, saw inflation rising moderately to 7.74 per cent in July 2021.

Devendra Pant, chief economist at India Ratings, said inflation in retail inflation rate in July was due to both base effect and slow price build up.

"The base effect will continue to help inflation slide at least till November 2021. Inflation is expected to decline slightly in the third quarter," he said.

Rahul Bajaj, chief India economist at Barclays, said, "We expect the CPI inflation rate to be somewhat sticky in the coming months, but over the next six months, it sees modestly trending lower."

Adil Nayyar, chief economist at ICRA, said with the inflation expected to remain sticky in the 5-6 per cent range over the next three quarters, it's increasingly difficult to characterise the pressures as purely transitory in nature.

"A small disruption could push inflation back above the 6 per cent threshold," she added.

Rumki Majumdar, economist at Deloitte India, said, "We believe that inflation may ease in the coming months assuming no rise in infections. However, high oil and commodity prices will keep the pressure on prices."

Sabnavis said crisis in the Kharif crops and their price effect. Sowing of Kharif crops gained momentum and hit almost 2020 levels during the week ended August 13. However, concerns remain over the final output because of delay in the planting of some crops, which have crossed their ideal sowing time.

and 472,355, while the more-powerful Activa 125 costs 472,637-79,760.

The launch comes days after Tesla CEO Elon Musk expressed hopes that the Indian government would slash tax on imported e-cars.

Earlier, Aggarwal had said he was not in favour of the government paring duty on imported electric vehicles and his comment went viral.

But Aggarwal, on Saturday, said that many people misinterpreted his comment that his firm did not want any competition.

Ola Electric had also revealed its plans to set up the world's largest e-two-wheeler charging network. The Ola Hypercharger Network is likely to be the widest and densest e-two-wheeler charging network in the world, with more than 100,000 charging points across 400 cities.

"This is the best year in terms of direct tax collection in the past four years. That's because some sectors are doing wonderfully well. Maybe, there is pent-up demand in high revenue sectors. Generally, corporates are doing well," said Mohapatra.

The Budget had pegged revenue from direct taxes at 11.03 trillion, necessitating 17 per cent over the 2020-21 actuals. Last year, the direct tax mop-up at 19.47 trillion was 9.7 per cent lower than the previous year due to the impact of the pandemic but exceeded the revised estimate of 19.05 trillion.

He said India used to import mobile phones in large numbers but is now exporting them. He asked exporters to make goods that were not merely competitive but also high quality because "your goods are brand ambassadors for the country".

"In our eyes, there must be a dream: A dream to capture the world market," he said.

Modi said the next 25 years are "Amrit Kaal" for Indian citizens. "The purpose of Amrit Kaal is to better the lives of citizens, lessen the development divide between villages and cities, reduce government interference in people's lives, and have the latest technology so that we are not behind any country in the world," the prime minister said.

"It will be the best scooter ever made, not just the best e-scooter," said Aggarwal, chairman and group CEO, Ola, during a roundtable at the Ola Electric campus in Bengaluru. "We have to make technology which is the best in the world and that's what we're doing. We've been saying we'll build our own technology. We built our own technology."

With pricing that undercuts competition - internal combustion engine (ICE) powered scooters and e-scooters and a promise of delivering an e-scooter that claims superiority over rivals, Aggarwal gave a clarification call to "reject petrol and commit to electrification."

"The only true solution for us is to genuinely completely reject petrol and commit to electrification," he said, often interrupting himself to ask "What do you think?" He said after 2025, "no petrol two-wheeler should be sold in India and it is possible to make this transition to sustainability in four years."

In India, Ola is now in direct competition with e-two-wheeler makers, such as Ather Energy, Hero Electric, Bajaj's Chetak, and TVS Motor Company. Ola has the SI (R99999) and SI Pro (1.29999) e-scooter models - the SI Pro has 437 kWh (kilowatt-hour) battery packs, which, according to the company, have enough power for a range of 181 km in a single charge.

The SI and SI Pro would be available for purchase from September 8 and deliveries across 1,000 cities and towns would start in October. The company would sell the vehicles online (olabest.com) and through physical stores.

"Ola is priced aggressively on a par with the gasoline ActiveX undercuts its EV rivals," Aditya Makaria, analyst at HDFC Securities, wrote in a research report. With a starting price of 185,000 in Delhi, the Ola e-scooter is cheaper than the TVS iQube (101,000), Bajaj Chetak (142,000) and the Ather 450 (starting at 1,15,000). Ex-showroom Delhi prices for ICE scooter Honda Active 6G ranges between 169,080

The SIT is a direct tax payable on the value of taxable securities transactions done through a stock exchange. It is levied at 0.1 per cent of turnover for delivery-based equity transactions, while for intraday transactions, the SIT for purchase is nil; for sale, it is 0.025 per cent of the turnover. The net direct tax collection witnessed 87 per cent YoY growth to 13.56 trillion until August 12. Gross collection at 14.05 trillion was 46.1 per cent higher YoY and refunds were down nearly 32 per cent.
